

Alexandra Krause, Ph.D

Survey Statistician, Decennial Programs Branch, Population Division, U.S. Census Bureau

Alexandra Krause is a survey statistician in the Population Division at the U.S. Census Bureau. Her primary focus is Decennial Census data products and dissemination, including differential privacy, but she also works on response processing. Alexandra obtained her PhD in sociology at Florida State University.