

AZ MEP MANUFACTURING LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

Continued and long-term success in a manufacturing organization can be attributed to those leaders who build strong relationships with others. Leaders need to be able to connect and engage others across the organization. Understanding how to navigate across functional areas of a business enterprise is critical to driving successful messaging and having greater impact. Navigating rapid growth and change can necessitate the need to move from “taking orders” to thinking strategically and driving communications as a valued partner. This session equips leaders to connect and engage audiences with different areas of need and interest while building one’s own personal communication style.

ATTENDING THIS SESSION WILL EMPOWER LEADERS TO:

- Actively listen and seek insights into needs and goals
- Connect with audiences across business functions
- Recognize and explore fluency across channels
